Geo. B. HENDRICKS.

A DISGRUNTLED DEMOCRAT. Who is Trying to Make Adherents to the Third Party Movement. BROWN COUNTY, TEX., July 19, 1891.

I see in your paper of the 17th instant a etter from C. H. Jenkins of Brownwood in which he says: "That to an outsider the Fort Worth meeting (Alliance) looks very much like the culmination of a determined effort to disrupt the Alliance, backed by the brains and money of politicians." It does seem to me that the writer reflects very heavy on the Alliance, as he clearly intimates that they have to get brains and money from the politicians. Permit me to say to him that the Alliance have men of brains and men of money, and that these say to him that the Alliance have men of brains and men of money, and that these brainy men are now and intend to remain in the Democratic party, and will remain true to the Alliance principles by fighting all efforts at class legislation; and if their good sense and wise counsel prevail, the farmers of Texas will be redeemed from their thraildon and ourseaster. farmers of Texas will be redeemed from their thralldom and oppression. Mr. Jenkins is an ex-editor of a Greenback paper, and an uncompromising enemy to the Democratic party, and being a lawyer, he cannot join the Alliance, but he is bold enough to put his spoon into their soupbowl, probably in hopes that he may gain adherents to the third party movement, and thus dig the ribs of the Democracy a little. Such side thrusts will fall to theil ground when your readers see the standpoint from which it emanates.

BROWNWOOD TEXT July 1981 BROWNWOOD, TEX., July 18, 1801. Editor Gazette.

I see a letter from this city in your paper of the 17th, written by C. H. Jenkins of this city, condemning the Fort Worth convention. Why is it this Mr. Jenkins does not belong to the Alliance? Still he says that there is money behind the Fort Worth convention, intimating that it is a Democratio ways to discust the Alliance? nove to disrupt the Alliance. That is what he is afraid of, not that he cares a cent for the Alliance, but he is afraid it will draw from the People's party, one of whom he is which, on whose wings he expects to fly into congress.

Why do I say this? Because Mr. Jenking has been fighting the Democratic party since he has been in this county. He was the leader of the Greenback party in this county. Then he claimed to be an Independent Democrat, and fought the straightout Democrats. Then he joined two or three cities in correction to Democratics. out Democrats. Then he joined two or three other parties in opposition to Democracy, and was a leader in the Human party and several other so-called people's parties. In other words, anything except a Democrat. All the interest Mr. Jonkins has in the Alliance is to get them to stick to Tracy and others in the third party. Mr. Jonkins is a lawyer and therefore, could Jenkins is a lawyer, and therefore, could not join the Alliance. I would ask Mr. Jenkins if he would not undertake to put up some money to get those Fort Worth convention men to stop kicking and follow Macune and Tracy in the third party. Charley, would not you put up a little to restore harmony in the Macune and Tracy wins of the Allium.
